THE INVISIBLE DICTATES THE VISIBLE

Just like the human body, spaces are more or less filled with 'Chi' (Universal energy) producing the vibration that is present there.

When a place is subject to experiences which conflict with the Natural Law it's field is weakened.

The presence of unwanted entities, or development of disruptive energetic patterns, can obstruct the flow of Chi which creates incoherence. Energetic incoherence is felt, even if rarely acknowledged because Chi influences humans on the mental, emotional and physical level.

Spaces can be treated to resolve all kinds of adverse outcomes stemming from neglected or heavily loaded energy fields - which are common in these times. As with all subtle work there are varying approaches, levels of operation and capabilities of practitioner.

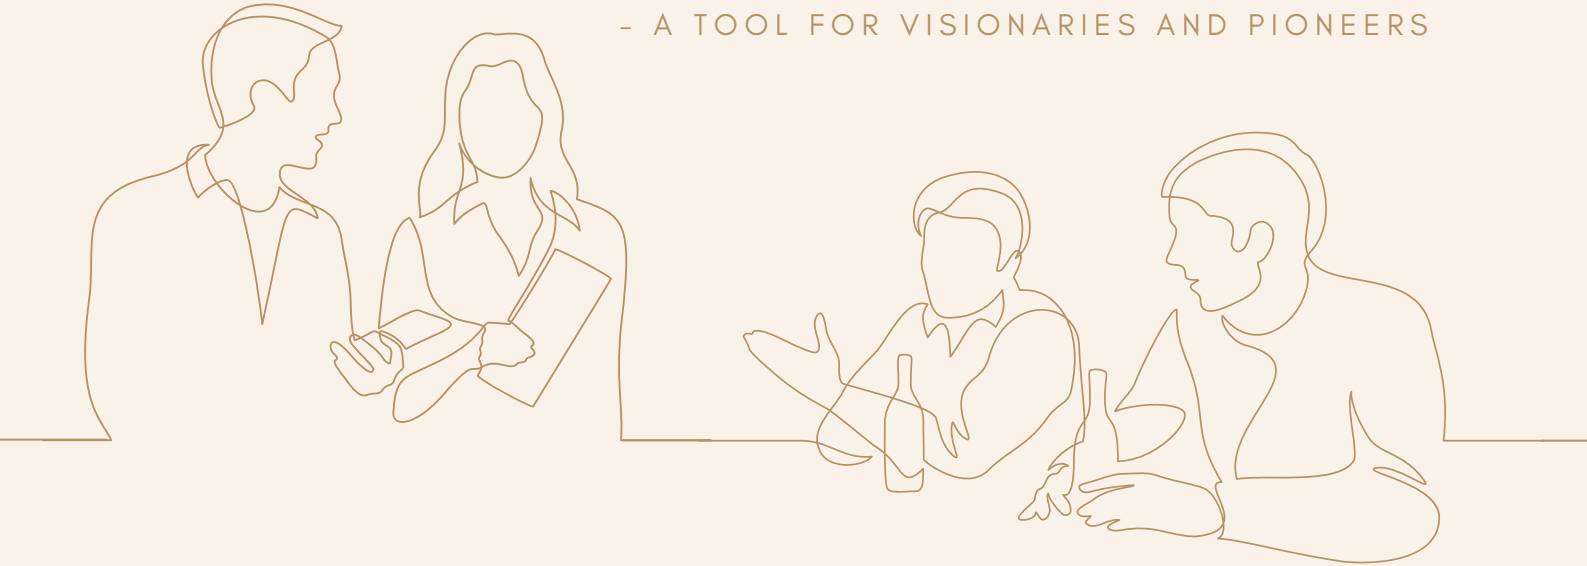

Just as you would hire a Plumber to tend to blocked pipes, a Feng Shui Consultant can help you achieve the optimal flow of primordial 'invisible' energy where you live or work (from the 5 elements to the chakras). Application generally includes 3 steps:

1. Clear and dissolve disruptive patterns or 'Cha' (negative or stuck energy)
2. Harmonise Chi to the level found in Nature so it can nourish the community
3. Identify and support places of force according to the client's needs, goals, the architecture and design

To compensate for significant and widespread lack of education, this document presents some fundamental information for the curious.

TIMELESS SCIENCE, MODERN APPLICATION

OLD AS TIME BUT FORGOTTEN BY THE MASSES
- A TOOL FOR VISIONARIES AND PIONEERS

WHAT IS FENG SHUI?

Although 'Feng Shui' (meaning 'Wind and Water') is commonly associated with the various lineages and (mainly) physical interpretations connected to ancient China, these do not represent the original and complete extent of the insights and the potential it holds.

Also referred to as 'Kanyu' (meaning 'in the change of Heaven and Earth') Feng Shui is a living knowledge of which collective understanding and application has historically suffered and been fragmented, diluted and obscured. Like all important means of access to power it has been misused and mistreated for many thousands of years.

Only when applied in connection with the Spiritual Realms, from where it originates, and with reverence for the laws of Chi flow (from cosmic weather to current potentials) can this art be fully experienced today. The application of Feng Shui involves analysing and directing Chi for optimal flow, so that it may nourish the community of the treated space.

WHAT DIFFERENCE DOES IT MAKE?

The placement of a building and the energy flow within it can determine success or failure in: business, marriage, harmony at home and neighbourhood interaction. It can stimulate or suppress, free or trap, inspire or deplete.

Everyone knows the experience of entering a place where things just feel 'off'. Therein, it is easy to understand that aligned energy at home and work is a key factor in determining quality of life. Yet, mainstream know-how is extremely limited. Even with the best intentions, it takes more than the occasional 'smudge'.

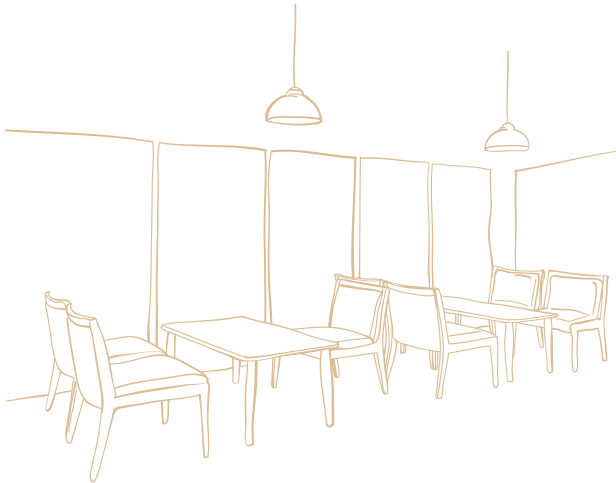

Existing as part of the web of Chi - animated by, and co-creating with it at all times - humans are inherently connected to their environments and therefore are contributing to/feeding from environmental patterns. A good Feng Shui Consultant can read these patterns and make adjustments to them. Doing so liberates spaces to better support humans and Nature. The benefit of caring for the symbiotic and cyclical relationship between humans and their spaces can then multiply exponentially.

SPACES AND BENEFITS

01 BUSINESSES

Feng Shui for your business can help to:

- Clarify goals and direct focus
- Strengthen teamwork
- Reduce inefficiencies
- Support a new goal and level-up
- Dissolve influences of prior leaders or owners
- Encourage visitors
- Improve sense of wellbeing and relaxation
- Garner inclination to invest

02 HOME

Feng Shui in your private space can help to:

- Create a modern-day sanctuary
- Improve relations within a household or with neighbours
- Decide the placement and plans for a new house
- Sell and attract the right buyer
- Resolve issues where you feel uncomfortable
- Improve sleep or study potentials
- Support a new phase of life or life goal

03 LANDSCAPES

Feng Shui applied to 'empty' landscapes can:

- Bring deep healing to long neglected or depleted areas
- Reconnect elemental beings and manage wildlife
- Improve the quantity and quality of produce
- Rectify and overcome historic events or influences
- Release trapped souls
- Renew the spiritual connection

Like Chi itself, this work is mysterious and takes place in the unseen. The adjustments can be perceived instantly, without moving a single stone or piece of furniture. Over time, the results unravel within and around the space.

THE PROCESS

CONSULTATION & PROPOSAL

Initial Consultation (online or in-person)

Please provide the address, photos, a calculation of size, floor plans and/or aerial maps of the property in question - if you have them. We will meet to assess the potentials and timeline as well as determine the quote for the project.

PREPARATION & IMPLEMENTATION

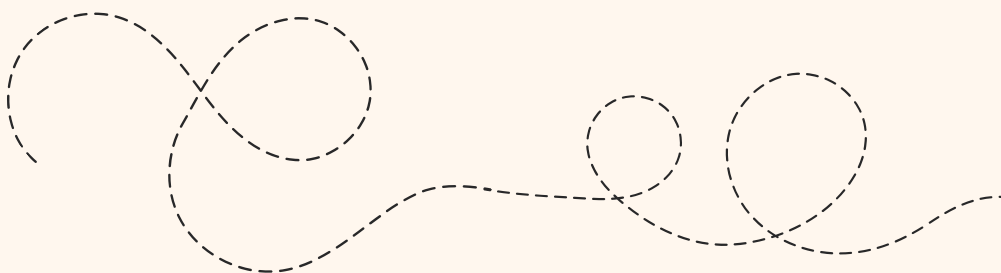

Feng Shui treatment underway

As soon as the Feng Shui Consultant begins to assess the patterns of Chi, deep transformation is underway. Usually the first site visit is also the date of first treatment - this can take several hours. Depending on the type of property and activity it may be necessary to vacate the area. This will be confirmed prior to implementation. It is also possible to perform the treatment remotely.

SUGGESTIONS

Next steps to make the most of the adjustments

Insights and recommendations are provided to get the most out of (and maintain) your upgraded, fresh, bright, shining space.
